Jesmond Saliba has served in several roles in the public, voluntary, and commercial sectors throughout his professional career, with responsibilities for stakeholder engagement and policy building.

Mr Saliba has been involved in the voluntary sector since his teenage years in Fgura's band club and the locality's football team. He was also involved in a number of sport organisations including Malta's volleyball association.

He has also an extensive background in major voluntary organisations engaged in the social sector. For the past ten years he served as a member of the board of directors of Dar tal-Providenza. He is also a member of Fondazzjoni Sebħ, which runs community services for vulnerable children and families and the Save a Life Foundation.

He is the founder of Corporate ID Group, a business management consultancy firm specialising in EU Affairs, strategic corporate communications, public affairs, news management and purpose marketing advisory.

Mr Saliba also has an extensive background in broadcasting spanning over almost 30 years, where for the past two years he was the news anchor on 103 Malta's Heart Breakfast and Morning Shows.
