

Work Life Balance Legal Notice

Social Affairs & Family Affairs Joint Committee Hearing

Dr Anna Borg – Malta Women's Lobby

11.10.2022

Setting the context

Employment rates* for
25-54 yrs age bracket, Jan-March 2022

□ 81% women

□ 93% men

Setting the context

- 20% of women work part time, 6% of men work part time
- Almost 1 in 5 women with care responsibilities had to reduce their working time whilst 13% of men looked for ways to increase their income
- Women with care responsibilities worked 34 hours per week on average, men 42 hours

Evidence of gender caring gaps

- While 81% of women in Malta report doing cooking and/or housework on a daily basis, 37% of men do so

- 42% of women in Malta do unpaid work related to care & education of their children, grandchildren, elderly and disabled family members, 25% of men do so

Evidence of gender caring gaps

- 97% of males with care responsibilities did not take a career break when becoming a parent
- These gender caring gaps contribute to the motherhood penalty which manifests itself through the Gender Pay Gap (10%), the Gender Pension Gap (40%) and vertical segregation

Let's now focus on the family policies

- How generous are they in terms of time allowed away from work?
 - How generous are they in terms of compensation level?

Inadequate Family Leaves

- Subsequent governments have been mean time-wise and compensation level-wise in relation to family leaves in Malta
 - Men – a life consumed by paid work, hardly any time for the family
 - Women – struggling to cope with the demands of paid work and family in a context where support is very limited (except for childcare for 0-3yr olds)

Inadequate family policies

- Maternity leave is relatively short in Malta, with 14 weeks at full pay rate and another 4 weeks at reduced pay
 - Fathers working in the private sector, get 10 days of leave on the birth/adoption of their children
 - Parental Leave is paid at sick pay level (€21.85) at a time when family expenses soar

Compensation rate levels of Parental Leave before the WLB Directive

As a consequence, uptake of parental leave by men was only 2.3% for Malta in the Public Sector, possibly lower in the Private Sector

Paternity Leave duration before the WLB Directive

Source: European Commission (2018) - Based on Blum et al. (2017) and European Platform for Investing in Children (2018)

Note: Well-paid is defined as at least 66 % of previous earnings. This threshold is set by the European Commission (2010) and indicates that earnings below 66 % create a risk of a low wage trap

Limited support for dual earner families

- ❑ Parents are only allowed 15 hours of urgent family leave a year when children get sick
- ❑ Workers in the Private Sector have fewer family friendly measures when compared to Public Sector employees
- ❑ Malta's school opening hours and school days are amongst the shortest in the EU

Inadequate family policies = fewer births?

Malta	1.13 births per woman, lowest low
Spain	1.19
Italy	1.24
Greece	1.39

- ❑ These numbers raise serious questions about the adequacy of family policies in these countries to sustain dual earner families
- ❑ Decline in birth rate has repercussions on the economy and sustainability of the welfare state

The 3 main aims of the WLB Directive

1. Enable people with caring responsibilities to better balance their work with family commitments
2. Encourage a better sharing of caring responsibilities between women and men, thus closing the caring gaps between women and men
3. Address the under-representation of women in the labour market

Bad Implementation of WLB Directive goes against the spirit of the law

The WLB Directive as implemented in Malta:

- does not fulfill the aims of the Directive
 - does not contribute to closing the caring gaps
 - will only result in a cosmetic change
